

Winter Workshops

Jung and the Expressive Arts With Sandy Geller

Four Workshops 10-2 PM

Come in out of the cold.

Enter into the coziness of an Analyst/Art Therapist's studio this Winter.

Using techniques such as tissue paper collages, clay scribble and sand play, we will explore our inner landscapes, a soulful time to immerse ourselves in the experience of what Jung called The Symbolic Attitude of the Psyche. Discover aspects of Self that emerge through engagement with the arts when the ego steps aside and makes room for dialogue with the unconscious.

The workshops are for those with an interest in Jung and the expressive Arts and for Therapists of all persuasions. Because they are experiential they will be limited to 8 participants so that each one will have individual time. The atmosphere will be relaxed and playful inviting psyche to enter the creative space.

Dates:

January 9, 23 + February 13, 27

Fees:

$150 Each Workshop

Total $600 or Sign Up for All at a Reduced Rate

4 workshops for $540

Payable with Registration In Advance.

CE's Available

Light Snacks and Drinks will be Provided. Wear Comfortable Clothes that can get dirty.

Sandy Geller, M.A., ATR-BC, LCPAT is a Jungian analyst and a board Certified Licensed Art Therapist. She is in private practice in Chevy Chase, MD, Near public transportation. Sandy Lectures and give workshops about Jungian Art Therapy and Creativity. The workshops always provide an experience of Jung and a deep connection with Soul. Sandy has taught at the CG Jung Institute in Kusnacht, Switzerland, The Philadelphia Jung Institute, The Jung Society of Washington and Elsewhere. Some Recent classes have been focused on dream drawing, personal myth and fairytale.

Coming in the spring:

Where Do I Come From/

Personal Creation Myths and Stories.

For More Information About The Workshops:

sgeller5@verizon.net

(301) 938 5600

Address and Directions Available at Registration

Stay Warm This Winter With Your Creativity